

CELEBRATE EARTH DAY'S 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Happy 50th Anniversary, Earth Day! The holiday falls on April 22nd every year and was created in 1970 to raise national awareness around environmental pollution and educate people about the importance of eco-friendly living habits. It was founded in the USA and has since grown to be a globally recognized day of celebration and education. Contra Costa Clean Water Program aligns itself directly with the message of Earth Day--to protect our land and waterways and reduce the negative impact we have on the environment.

Get involved in your community on Earth Day 2020, because, well, that's the point! Check out Marine Science Institute's Earth Day on The Bay (sfbaymsi.org/earthday) for free family fun for all ages. Head to Earth Day SF (earthdaysf.org), a large Earth Day festival with learning opportunities, renowned speakers and fun for all ages.

The beginning to becoming aware and changing your habits starts with exposing yourself to education opportunities. Your journey to becoming more eco-friendly awaits.
